A Lasallian high school specializing in the care, support and education of young men in need of a small, special environment to find academic success

As a small, private, Rhode Island Secondary School: Ocean Tides – Providence Campus wants to set itself apart from other regular and special education schools. We want to become a destination school for you to consider placing your “at-risk” and assist you in satisfying your need for rapid placement of an alternative program student into a caring and dedicated Day- School with a strong hands-on vocational programming program.

As a leader in Rhode Island’s residential treatment, education and vocational workforce integration of young Men for over forty-five years: We have been successful in preparing students for successful reintegration back into local public school, the workforce, and post high school educational settings. Now we are offering all of these services in our small, intimate, Providence Campus School.

Our therapeutic program, working with students from grades 7 – 12, in close cooperation with the student’s home school, targets the academic and behavioral problems which put the students continued educational success at risk and can jeopardize their ability to remain at home and successful in life.
